DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over applicant's admitted prior art and Srinivan in view of Bell et al.

Applicant's admitted prior art and Srinivasan shows all of the limitations of the claims except for specifying the combination of a first and second presence over an electronic network.

Applicant's specification, page 1, "It is known to browse for, and purchase, goods over the Internet. For example, SamGoody.com offers the purchase of CDs, tapes, DVDs, etc. containing music and/or video via the Internet. It is also known to download digital data over the Internet."

Srinivasan shows a system and method of selling downloadable digital products over the Internet.

Bell et al. teaches, figure 1, a method for cross-marketing products and services over a distributed communication network in order to increase sales.

Based on the teaching of Bell et al., it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to combine the two similar sales processes shown above by means of the Bell et al. system in order to increase sales.
